How to use them:

After the high-frequency word assessment, you will be able to determine where your students are with reading high frequency words. If a student did not get a high frequency word right, that student would need to start out in book 1. If the student got about 75 words correct, they would start in book two. This is a way to differentiate instruction and allow the students to work on their level. Books 6-10 have fluency phrases. Each student will start in a booklet. They will start with the first page of the booklet. If they read everything correctly, they can put a sticker on the front of their booklet to show they have mastered that level. If they do not get them all correct, there is a place at the bottom where you can date and mark their errors. The students will then continue to practice and when it is time to be checked again, the student will read the eight words or phrases aloud to you. You can send these home in their book bags as well for parents to practice at home.

Warning: They take a little time to prepare.
